

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Bad Timing!

Learning Outcome

Exchange information about people's interests and backgrounds using a wider range of language.

Ask your partner:

- Have you ever had an experience when something happened and it was just bad timing?
- How do you feel towards your boss or teacher? Do they make you nervous? Why or why not?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about jobs, work, rules and regulations.
- I can talk about my attitudes toward an action.
- I can use expressions like in fact and of course.

Let's Explore!

Let's read a story about Tom. How does Tom feel towards his boss?

* You can "feel towards" or about something.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Bad Timing

Tom was a very hard worker who earned a lot of money for his company. He was determined to ask his boss, Mr. Draper, for a pay bump, but he felt uncomfortable about doing so. Tom disliked confronting people about money. It took several weeks before he decided to ask Mr. Draper for more money.

Finally, one Monday morning, Tom went into his boss's office. "Excuse me, Mr. Draper", he said, "I think I deserve a raise". Mr. Draper put up his hand and said "Not now, Tom. Can we do this later?" Tom was so nervous, he just turned around and walked out of the room. Of course, Tom considered going back later, but he started to feel angrier and angrier towards his boss. He didn't anticipate being cut off so abruptly. In fact, he became so infuriated that he stopped working altogether and went for a walk.

The fresh air started to clear Tom's head and he began to feel better. He proceeded to regret the way he left Mr. Draper's office. Suddenly Tom had an irresistible urge to tell his boss exactly how he felt. If necessary, he would quit his job. Tom got up with determination and went into Mr. Draper's office. Draper looked up and smiled. "Oh Tom," he said. "This is a better time. Now, let's talk about that raise. How much did you have in mind?"

Let's Practice!

Tom needs to confront his boss.

Instructions: Draw a line to match the sentences in Column A and Column B.

COLUMN A

COLUMN B

1. to confront
2. infuriated
3. determination
4. urge
5. to cut off
6. pay bump

- a. to talk to someone about a problem
- b. a raise; an increase in salary
- c. very angry
- d. firmness of purpose
- e. desire
- f. to interrupt someone in mid-sentence

Let's Practice!

Should Tom wait to talk to his boss later? Of course!

Instructions: Choose the words from the Word Bank to correctly complete the sentences.

1. Of course, Tom _____ going back later, but he started to feel angry.
2. In fact, he _____ so infuriated that he stopped working.
3. Of course I _____ help you!
4. Tom doesn't really enjoy his job. In fact, he _____ me he hates it.
5. Of course, if his boss is very busy, Tom should _____ to him later.

Word Bank

- Became
- Considered
- Speak
- Can
- told

Extension Activity

Write about how you can deal with stress at work.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Imagine that you are having a very stressful day at work.
- With a partner, brainstorm a list of things you can do to make yourself feel better.
- Compare your list with some other students.
- Make a poster with suggestions for dealing with stress at work that could be put on the wall of a workplace.
- Talk about your poster using expressions like in fact and of course.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I talk about jobs, work, rules and regulations.

☐
☐

I talk about my attitudes toward an action.

☐
☐

I use expressions like in fact and of course.

☐
☐

I produce a poster with suggestions to deal with workplace stress.

☐
☐

Target Words

- to confront (verb): to talk to someone about a problem
e.g. Tom disliked confronting people about money.
- to cut off (verb): to interrupt someone mid-sentence
e.g. He didn't anticipate being cut off so abruptly.
- pay bump (noun): a raise; an increase in salary
e.g. He was determined to ask his boss, Mr. Draper, for a pay bump.
- infuriated (adjective): very angry
e.g. In fact, he became so infuriated that he stopped working altogether and went for a walk.
- irresistible (adjective): hard to ignore e.g. Suddenly Tom had an irresistible desire to tell his boss exactly how he felt.
- urge (noun): desire e.g. Suddenly Tom had an irresistible urge to tell his boss exactly how he felt.
- determination (noun): firmness of purpose
e.g. Tom got up with determination and went into Mr. Draper's office.

Learning Points

Gerunds and Infinitives

A gerund is a verb ending with -ing (doing).
An infinitive is to + verb (to do).

There are rules about which verbs you can use with gerunds and which verbs you can use with infinitives.

Verbs commonly followed by a gerund:

Verbs that express likes/dislikes:

- like*
- love
- enjoy*
- dislike
- hate*

Example:

Tom disliked confronting people about money.

*like/love/hate can also be followed by an infinitive.

Other verbs that are followed by a gerund:

- anticipate
- consider
- delay
- complete
- involve
- suggest
- risk

Verbs commonly followed by a infinitives:

- hope
- proceed
- seem
- decide
- start

Example:

It took several weeks before he decided to ask Mr. Draper for more money.

You also use infinitives after adjectives.

Learning Points

Example:

He was determined to ask his boss, Mr. Draper, for a pay bump.

Using of course and in fact

The phrases of course and in fact are discourse markers.

Discourse markers show how ideas are connected. They usually come at the beginning of a sentence.

Discourse markers can show a connection to what the speaker is saying and what was just said. They can also show what the speaker's opinion is about what is being said.

You use the phrase of course in different ways:

1. To show that you are willing to compromise about what is being said. Perhaps you changed your opinion or are trying to show some agreement with someone else.

Example:

Mr. Draper: If you achieve the financial goal, I'll consider giving you a raise.

Tom: I'd would like one earlier. Of course I understand your position, so I will wait.

1. To mean "as everybody knows" or "as is obvious".

Example:

Of course the sun rises in the east.

1. A polite reply to a request.

Example:

Sarah: Could you help me?

Jack: Of course.

You use the phrase in fact to emphasize the truth of a situation.

Example:

In fact, he became so infuriated that he stopped working altogether and went for a walk.

